Stop this irrational harassment of Microsoft. Let the free marketplace reign untethered by government intervention or unfair marketplace tactics, monopoly etc. Those that pursue the present course of undermining Microsoft's innovations and aggressive marketing are not leveling the playing field but merely tilting it in their favor at the expense of the consumer. Let those that are the best rise to the top so that this country will maintain its vaunted position as the industrial power of the world. Let those that fall behind develop their niche' and their drive to be more competitive by hard work and innovation. The states that refuse to settle merely want a cut of the pie to cover their budgetary short fall. Profit is not a bad word. Neither is success, innovation or hard work. Bottom line, Microsoft has not distorted the system. The consumer has benefited while the naysayers are merely suffering from self righteous astigmatism. Frank L. Frable
